Schuyler Believed Ready to Start a Garvey Plan

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Harlem is watching H. G. Mudgal, editor of the Negro World, and George Schuyler, former editor of the suspended National News. Schuyler and Mudgal went into a conference two weeks ago and came out with a proposition that looks to many Harlemites like a new "Back to Africa" scheme.

In their formal statement after their conference, the two editors said: "A body of nationally known Negroes should back up a movement, possibly to be known as a Save Liberia Society, which should aim to raise enough funds to retire $2,500,000 loan that Liberia owes to develop Liberia by colonizing at least 5,000 families of American Negroes who are skilled farmers and artisans who would be directed and aided by the 'Save Liberia Society.' Further details will be made public jointly by Mr. Schuyler and Mr. Mudgal after the former comes back from his lecture trip on behalf of the consumers' cooperative movement.

Many Harlemites who have known Schuyler for the past ten years, and remember his bitter fight against Marcus Garvey because of his "Back to Africa" movement, are waiting to see if Schuyler will seriously undertake the scheme.
